

Disciplines Listing

Radcliffe Institute Fellowship Application for 2023-2024

There are three application areas for the Radcliffe Institute Fellowship application: Humanities and Social Sciences, Creative Arts, and Science, Engineering, and Mathematics. Below is a list of the disciplines included in each area for the purposes of our application. Before starting an application in one of these three areas, make sure you meet the eligibility requirements outlined on the application portal.

Humanities and Social Sciences

African-American Studies	Folklore/ Oral History/	Psychology
American Studies	Mythology	Public Administration Public
Anthropology	Geography	Health
Architecture	History	Public Policy
Art History	Law	Religion
Business	Linguistics	Sociology
Classics/Ancient Languages	Literature	Urban and Regional Planning
Cultural Studies	Multidisciplinary	Women's, Gender, and
Economics	Musicology	Sexuality Studies
Education	Philosophy
Environmental Studies	Political Science
Film Studies	Population Studies

Creative Arts

Creative Writing	Film and Video
- Fiction	Journalism
- Poetry	Music - Composition
- Nonfiction: Biography/ Autobiography/ Memoir	Playwriting
- Nonfiction: Current Issues and other topics	Visual Arts

Science, Engineering, and Mathematics

Biology and Medical Sciences	Mathematics and Applied Sciences
Chemistry	Materials Science
Computer Science	Physics and Astronomy/Astrophysics
Earth and Planetary Sciences	Statistics
Engineering Sciences	